

HIS ACCEPTANCE.

Bryan's Reply to the Popocratic Committee of Notification

A VERY ORDINARY DOCUMENT.

Its brevity is in marked contrast with his interminable speeches—iterates his determination not to be a candidate for re-election in case he falls through this time—he stands for the Chicago platform without any reservation or equivocation—a paper that the intelligent reader cannot help but designate as "flat, stale and unprofitable"—only refers to the silver question in a relative manner.

Hon. Stephen M. White and others, members of the notification committee of the Democratic national convention:

Gentlemen: I accept the nomination tendered by you on behalf of the Democratic party, and in so doing desire to assure you that I fully appreciate the high honor which such a nomination confers and the grave responsibilities which accompany an election to the presidency of the United States. So deeply am I impressed with the magnitude of the power vested by the constitution in the chief executive of the nation, and with the enormous influence which he can wield for the benefit or injury of the people that I wish to enter the office, if elected, free from every personal desire except the desire to prove worthy the confidence of my country. Human judgment is fallible enough when unbiassed by selfish considerations, and in order that I may not be tempted to use the patronage of the office to advance any personal ambition, I hereby announce, with all the emphasis which words can express, my fixed determination not to be a candidate for re-election in case this campaign results in my election.

I have carefully considered the platform adopted by the Democratic national convention and unqualifiedly endorse each plank thereof.

Our institutions rest upon the proposition that all men, being created equal, are entitled to equal consideration at the hands of the government. Because all men are created equal it follows that no citizen has a natural right to injure any other citizen. The main purpose of government being to protect all citizens in the enjoyment of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, this purpose must lead the government first to avoid acts of affirmative injustice and, second to restrain each citizen from trespassing upon the rights of another citizen.

A Democratic form of government is conducive to the highest civilization because it opens before each individual the greatest opportunities for development and stimulates to the highest endeavor by insuring to each the full enjoyment of all the rewards of toil except such contribution as is necessary to support the government which protects him. Democracy is indifferent to pedigree—it deals with the individual rather than with his ancestors. Democracy ignores differences in wealth—neither riches nor poverty can be invoked in behalf or against any citizen. Democracy knows no creed—recognizing the right of each individual to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, it welcomes all to one common brotherhood and guarantees equal treatment to all, no matter in what church or through what forms they commune with their Creator.

Having discussed portions of the platform at the time of its adoption and gain when your letter of notification was formally delivered it will not be necessary at this time to touch upon all the subjects embraced in the party's declaration.

A Dual Government.

Honest differences of opinion have ever existed and ever will exist as to the most effective means of securing domestic tranquility, but no citizen fails to recognize at all times and under all circumstances the absolute necessity for the prompt and vigorous enforcement of law and the preservation of the public peace. In a government like ours law is but the crystallization of the will of the people; without it the citizen is no longer secure in the enjoyment of life and liberty nor protected in the pursuit of happiness. Without obedience to law government is impossible. The Democratic party is pledged to defend the constitution and enforce the laws of the United States, and it is also pledged to respect and preserve the dual scheme of government instituted by the founders of the republic. The name, United States, was happily chosen. It combined the idea of national strength with the idea of local self government and suggests "an indissoluble union of indestructible states." Our revolutionary fathers, fearing the tendencies towards centralization, as well as the dangers of disintegration, guarded against both, and national safety, as well as domestic security, is to be found in the observance of the limitations which they impose. It will be noticed that, while the United States guarantees to every state a Republican form of government and is empowered to protect each state against invasion, it is not authorized to interfere in the domestic affairs of any state except upon application of the legislature of the state or upon the application of the executive when the legislature cannot be convened.

This provision rests upon the sound theory that the people of the state, acting through their legally chosen representatives are because of their more intimate acquaintances with local conditions, better qualified than the president to judge of the necessity for federal assistance. Those who framed our constitution wisely determined to make a broad application of the principles of local self-government as circumstances would permit, and we cannot dispute the correctness of the position taken by them without expressing a distrust of the people themselves.

Since governments exist for the protection of the rights of the people and not for their spoliation or expenditure of public money can it be supposed that expenditure is necessary for the honest economical and efficient administration of the government. In determining what appropriations are necessary the interest of those who pay the taxes should be consulted, rather than the wishes of those who receive or disburse public money.

Bonds.

An increase in the bonded debt of the United States at this time is entirely without excuse. The issue of interest-bearing bonds within the last few years has been defended on the ground that they were necessary to secure gold with which to redeem United States notes and treasury notes, but this necessity is imaginary rather than real. Instead of exercising the legal right vested in the United States to redeem its coin in either gold or silver, the executive branch of the government has followed a precedent established by a former administration and surrendered the option to the holder of the obligations. This administrative policy leaves the government at the mercy of those who find a pecuniary profit in bond issues. The fact that the dealers in money and securities have been able to deplete or protect the treasury according to the changing whims, shows how dangerous it is to permit them to exercise a controlling influence of the treasury department. The government of the United States, when administered in the interests of the people to establish the enforcement of a financial policy, not only without the aid of syndicates, but in the face of any opposition which syndicates may present. To assert that the government is dependent upon the good will or assistance of any portion of the people other than a constitutional majority, is to assert that we have a government in form but without vital force.

National Bank Currency.

The position taken by the platform against the issue of paper money by the national banks is supported by the highest Democratic authority as well as demanded by the interests of the people. The present attempt of the national banks to force the retirement of United States notes and treasury notes in order to secure a basis for a larger issue of their own notes, illustrates the danger which arises from permitting them to issue their paper as a circulating medium. The national bank note, being redeemable in lawful money, has never been better than the United States note which stands behind it, and yet the banks persistently demand that these United States notes, which draw no interest, shall give place to interest-bearing bonds in order that the banks may collect the interest which the people now save. To empower national banks to issue circulating notes is to grant a valuable privilege to a favored class, surrender to a private corporation the control over the volume of paper money, and build up a class which will claim a vested interest in the nation's financial policy. Our United States notes, commonly known as greenbacks, being redeemable in either gold or silver, at the option of the government and not at the option of the holder, are safer and cheaper for the people than the national bank notes based upon interest-bearing bonds.

A dignified and firm maintenance of the foreign policy first set forth by President Monroe and reiterated by the presidents who have succeeded him, instead of arousing hostility abroad, is the best guarantee of amicable relations with other nations.

It is better for all concerned that the United States should resist any extension of European authority in the western hemisphere, rather than write the continual irritation which would necessarily result from any attempt to increase the influence of monarchical institutions over that portion of the Americas which has been dedicated to republican government.

No nation can afford to be unjust to its defenders. The care of those who have suffered injury in the military and naval service of the country is a sacred duty. A nation which, like the United States, relies upon voluntary service rather than upon a large standing army, adds to its own security when it makes generous provision for those who have risked their lives in its defense, and for those who are dependent upon them.

Labor creates capital. Until wealth is produced by the application of brain and muscle to the resources of this country there is nothing to divide among the non-producing classes of society. Since the producers of wealth create the nation's prosperity in time of peace, and defend the nation's flag in time of peril, their interests ought at all times to be considered by those who stand in official positions. The Democratic party has ever found its voting strength among those who are proud to be known as the common people, and it pledges itself to propose and enact such legislation as is necessary to protect the masses in the free exercise of every political right and in the enjoyment of their just share of the rewards of their labor.

Railroads.

I desire to give special emphasis to the plank which recommends such legislation as is necessary to secure the arbitration of differences between employers engaged in inter-state commerce and their employees. Arbitration is not a new idea—it is simply an extension of the right of justice. The laboring men of the country have expressed a desire for arbitration, and the railroads cannot reasonably object to the decisions rendered by an impartial tribunal. Society has an interest even greater than the interests of employer or employee, and has a right to protect itself by courts of arbitration against the growing inconvenience and embarrassment occasioned by disputes between those who own the great arteries of commerce on the one hand and the laborers who operate them on the other.

While the Democratic party welcomes to the country those who come with love for our institutions and with the determination and ability to contribute to the strength and greatness of our nation, it is the duty of the Democratic party to stand up for the classes upon our shores and to the importation of either pauper or contract labor to compete with American labor. The recent abuses which have grown out of injunction proceedings have been so emphatically condemned by public opinion that the senate bill providing for trial by jury in certain contempt cases will meet with general approval. The Democratic party is opposed to trusts. It will be recreant to its duty to the people of the country if it recognizes either the moral or the legal right of these great aggregations of wealth to stifle competition, bankrupt rivals, and then prey upon society. Corporations, the creatures of law and equity must not be permitted to grow from under the control of the power which created them; they are permitted to exist upon the theory that they advance the public weal and they must not be allowed to use their powers for the public injury.

The right of the United States government to regulate interstate commerce cannot be questioned, and the necessity for the vigorous exercise of that right is becoming more and more imperative. The interests of the whole people require such an enlargement of the powers of the inter-state commerce commission as will enable it to prevent discrimination between persons and places, and protect patrons from unreasonable charges.

The government cannot afford to discriminate between its debtors and its creditors, and, therefore, must prosecute its legal claims against the Pacific railroads. Such a policy is necessary for the protection of the patrons as well as for the interests of the government. The people of the United States, happy in the enjoyment of the blessings of a free government, feel a generous sympathy toward all who are endeavoring to secure like blessings for themselves. This sympathy, while respecting all treaty obligations, is especially active and earnest when excited by the struggles of pioneering people, who, like the Cubans, are near enough to observe the workings of a government which derives all its authority from the consent of the governed.

That the American people are not in favor of life time tenure in the civil service is evident from the fact that they as a rule, make frequent changes in their official representatives when those representatives are chosen by ballot. A permanent office-holding class is not in harmony with our institutions. A fixed term in appointive offices, except where the federal constitution now provides otherwise, would open the public service to a larger number of citizens without impairing its efficiency.

The territorial form of government is temporary in its nature and should give way as soon as the territory is sufficiently advanced to take its place among the states. New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arizona, are entitled to statehood and their early admission is demanded by their material and political interests. The demand of the platform that citizens be pointed to administer the affairs of the government of the territories, the District of Columbia and Alaska, should be bona fide residents of the territories or District of Columbia, is entirely in keeping with the Democratic theory of home rule. I am also heartily in sympathy with the declaration that all public lands should be reserved for the establishment of free homes for American citizens.

The policy of improving the great waterways of the country is justified by the national characters of those waterways, the enormous tonnage borne upon them, the experience has demonstrated that continuing appropriations are, in the end, more economical than single appropriations separated by long intervals.

It is not necessary to discuss the tariff question at this time. Whatever may be the individual views of citizens as to the relative merits of protection and tariff reform, all must recognize that until the money question is fully and finally settled, the American people will not consent to the consideration of any other important question. Taxation presents a problem which in some form is continually present, and a postponement of definite action upon it involves no sacrifice of personal opinion or political principle, but the crisis presented by financial conditions cannot be postponed. Tremendous results will follow the action taken by the United States on the money question, and delay is impossible. The people of the nation sitting as a high court, must render judgment in the cause which greed is prosecuting against humanity. The decision will either give hope and inspiration to those who are shut out by the door of this overpowering issue, differences upon minor questions must be laid aside in order that there may be united action among those who are determined that progress toward an universal gold standard shall be stayed, and the gold and silver coinage of the constitution restored.

The Campaign in Mercer.

Special Correspondence.

CONCORD CHURCH, W. Va., Sept. 8.—The campaign in Mercer thus far has been an educational one, and Republicans are losing nothing by voters being informed as to the issues. So far we have heard but few speeches from any one outside our local speakers. The speeches made in this county by Charles Burdett Hart set the people to thinking, and we have been constantly gaining ground. Dr. J. H. Hale made a fine speech near here last Friday to a large crowd. Dr. Hale is logical and a speaker with great force, and never fails to get the attention of his hearers. Besides, he has the utmost confidence of all our people and does much good for the sound money cause. There is no doubt but what we are going to carry the county. We are working to that end. That "123" which was reported to be after us being the number of Republicans in two districts in Mercer, who would vote for Bryan is fast dwindling away.

CASTORIA.

A POISONED LIVER.

Don't Keep Poison in Your Body Longer Than You Have To.

If your stomach poisons your liver the consequences may be serious.

What poisons arise in your stomach come from undigested food, which has decomposed there. They are absorbed by your blood and go to your liver, where they paralyze its functions and make you bilious.

Finally they go into the blood again and are carried all over the body, disordering your different organs, and perhaps making you dangerously sick.

This is the origin of many diseases which are not always known for what they are.

The poisons of undigested food can only be got rid of by the use of a purgative, strengthening, digestive tonic, like the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

A few doses of this wonderful cordial will soon clear away all undigested, fermenting, poisonous substances, restore your appetite, add to you digest your food, purify your liver and blood of all dangerous poisons, and restores you to perfect health.

It will cure biliousness, indigestion, nausea, headache, dizziness, mental depression, weakness, fever, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, bad taste in mouth, stomach-ache, anæmia, rheumatism, etc., where other medicines will barely give relief.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

A Missing Drummer.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 8.—Charles King Fairchild, a traveling salesman for several San Francisco jewelry houses, has been missing from hotel McDermott here, since the third inst. It is believed that he became demented and wandered off or has been foully dealt with. The police have been communicating with very town in the state, but cannot find any trace of him. He had samples at the hotel valued at $5,000. The firm he is represented have telegraphed to have the samples sent to them, but the hotel people knowing that there are several owners, refuse to deliver them except to personal representatives. Fairchild is thirty-five years old, and a son of a well known gold pen manufacturer.

He is Not Surprised.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—Baron von Herman, of the German Embassy at Washington, D. C., who is studying the agricultural resources of this state, in discussing politics yesterday, said: "Bimetallism by the United States alone would cause great loss to your country, but free coinage, which is virtually the adoption of the silver standard, would be much worse. I am not surprised at the withdrawal of capital from this country under present conditions."

Sons of Veterans in Parade.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 9.—Two thousand Sons of Veterans assisted by local unformed societies, participated in the annual parade of the order this morning. Along the line of march a great concourse of people gave the juniors a cheering welcome. The parade was concluded by a review of the column by Commander-in-Chief Russell and Stagg.
